EXECUTIVE DIPLOMACY

Legality of the unusual diplomacy being practiced by President Roosevelt with Canada and Great Britain are less important right now than the possibilities.

The President is moving in a field where the authority of his office is vague, but the vital fact is that he is moving—and moving rapidly, apparently to meet some impending crisis.

General result of his action so far is to commit this government to a position on mutual defense with Canada which London views as an opening wedge for an alliance with Great Britain. Acquisition of leasing privileges to British territory for establishment of defense bases also is under consideration, apparently in connection with a deal for some of this government's reserve destroyer flotilla.

These negotiations are going forward as executive agreements, to distinguish them from agreements calling for consultation with the senate and, if concluded, ratification by the senate. They follow the lead of Theodore Roosevelt who, asserted in his autobiography: "My belief was that it was not only his (the President's) right but his duty to do anything that the needs of the nation demanded unless such action was forbidden by the Constitution." This may be compared with President Taft's view "that the President can exercise no power which cannot be fairly and reasonably traced to some specific grant of power or justly implied and included within such express grant as proper and necessary to its exercise."

Thus, it is evident that practice of executive diplomacy by the President may vary widely according to personalities, subject only to the senate's inclination to interfere in any given instance. The stern reality of the situation is, however, that commitments made as executive agreements usually are irrevocable. Mr. Roosevelt's momentous decisions, seemingly made under pressure of confidential information from Great Britain, are destined to determine the foreign policy of the United States regardless of what the senate might determine if it were being consulted.

STOWAWAY

Intuition, electrified by the strange circumstances of the episode, warns there was something fishy about passage of the American Legion through waters north of Scotland.

The ship's most direct route would have taken it far north through an area which Great Britain has warned is heavily mined. Yet, when a decision by the chief of naval operations to route the ship through Scottish waters was announced, Germany warned of danger and disclaimed responsibility for safe passage. Why Germany should wash its hands of responsibility for safety of an American vessel in waters which British claim to control is left to imagination. Why the vessel was routed the long way home, why this government warned Germany not to molest it, why the question of freedom of the seas was reopened—these are left to imagination, too. Meanwhile, the American Legion is reported out of danger and on the way home.

THE DOCTRINAIRE

Leon Trotsky, like some hundreds of thousands of lesser known men, had the bad luck to get tangled up with an idea he couldn't control. The violent fate which has dogged his footsteps has brought death in its time to countless Russians, was responsible for the rise of Adolf Hitler, has been the No. 1 bogeyman for politicians and professional patriots for more than a generation and hasn't been cornered yet.

In fact, what the world needs more than anything else right at this moment is the resurrection of Karl Marx, dead these 57 years, so his dissident followers might ask what in the name of all that's holy he would decide.

But that wouldn't do any good either, because in short order Comrade Karl would disagree with someone and then, instead of disposing of one another they'd have to dispose of Karl.

FILE FOR FUTURE REFERENCE

Best known story about Walter P. Chrysler, dead at 65, is his purchase of a $5,000 automobile solely to take apart. By taking it apart and putting it back together again—something like 40 times, according to his own estimate—he learned how to improve on its design. Knowledge gained in this way led him ultimately to development of the engineering principles on which his own company built its success.

Next time a hush-husher takes a poke at destructive criticism with the idea of protecting a sacred cow, haul out the story of Walter Chrysler tearing down $5,000 worth of shiny new automobile preparatory to finding out how to make a better one for a fifth of the price.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, Aug. 24

DESPITE some tenacious obstacles or limitations, judging by favorable offsetting planetary factors, there should be a definite march upon ambitious goals on this day. This by taking heed of congested or crystallized situations, probably by forceful measures, aggressive tactics and the cooperation of those in power with a friendly desire to be of assistance. Be wary as to traps and duplicity. Social, domestic and affectional relations are pleasant.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of definite progress and the fulfillment of high ambitions, although there may be impediments and difficulties to dispose of. This may be accomplished by friendly assistance from those in power who are impressed by the soundness and practicability of propositions submitted to them. Hard work should tell. There may be happy and propitious conditions in the purely personal life, where friendship is important.

A child born on this day should be steady, industrious and ambitious, and make a success of its affairs despite obstacles and handicaps. Its personal affability, dependability and good nature would make for much popularity.

LULL BEFORE STORM?

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Nazi raid over England during the hours of darkness wasn't a big wind but just a breeze in the midst of the doldrums through which the blitzkrieg has been wallowing the past few days.

This unusual calm is attracting a lot of attention. Four out of five of the many people I meet daily are demanding what is delaying Hitler's death-blow at Britain, and want to know:

"Is this the lull before the storm—or what?"

Well, it's a real compliment to have folk ask questions like that with so much trust and anticipation. Likely the smart thing for a professional observer to do is to give a quick answer and not admit that he doesn't know. Be that as may, I'm going to plead guilty to ignorance of the exact reason why the fuelier still paces the sands of the English channel, as did Napoleon.

True, I have some ideas on the subject which may come near the mark, and I am prepared to share them. Of one thing I feel very sure:

The worst mistake that Britain could make—would be to assume that Herr Hitler is finished.

He is carrying in his clenched hand a far greater bolt of lightning than he has yet flung at the England he hates. If and when he will let it loose, perhaps he himself doesn't know. It is even possible that he won't find it feasible to use it at all in the manner originally intended.

The important thing, however, is that the bolt is there in the form of as yet untouched aerial power which is his to use as he wills.

Apparently there was some danger that Britons, with their growing confidence, might discount this fact.

So far as we know that vast air power is the weapon upon which Hitler must depend for victory, unless he does the hat trick and pulls out something that is new to military science. The increasingly strong defense which the British have been making means that he must strike with all the force he has, and with exceeding care and skill.

This presages quick victory or defeat. With that in mind it doesn't take much imagination to see that the Nazi high command is faced with a tremendous amount of organization before they can attack.

The Nazis must have control of the air for any invasion. And while they have superiority at present, they do not have control, as witness the vigorous British offensive operations.

So Herr Hitler has plenty of problems to solve before he can attack, but if he fails to make the assault it will be surprising. As Prime Minister Churchill remarked in commons:

"It is quite plain that Herr Hitler could not admit defeat in his air attack on Great Britain without most serious injury."

Child Back On The Farm

Benefits Are Cited by Dr. Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHAT IS the benefit today for a child to visit a farm? According to Dr. Allen G. Ireland, Health Education Director of New Jersey, it is in seeing where the food he eats comes from. In this day of living out of cans this is not surprising. A summer trip to the farm may be made the basis for an all winter long course of study in food values and dietary hygiene. It's one thing to be told about the content of milk, quite another to see the actual milking process and bottling. One thing to hear about green vegetables, quite another to see the plants growing, being tended and gathered.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Food Likes and Habits

As a matter of actual experience, teachers and mothers say that these trips make a tremendous difference in a child's food likes and habits. To see a plant growing arouses curiosity about it that is never stirred by seeing it cooked on a plate. So a trip to the farm broadens the taste in the best sense—the taste for different foods.

How fast does the blood circulate and how can this be determined?

The rapidity with which blood moves about would have astonished old William Harvey, who discovered that the blood circulated. He thought it made a complete circuit in about thirty minutes. The correct time is closer to that many seconds. A drop of blood at the elbow in the arm goes to the right side of the heart through the lungs, to the left side of the heart and to the nose or tongue in about ten seconds. The method to prove this is to put a small amount of ether in the vein of the arm and then when the experimental subject first tastes or smells the ether the circuit has been made. Other methods which get away from the possibility of error from a subjective sensation like taste or smell are also used.

Do vegetables that you grow in your own garden really taste better than those you buy at the store?

Yes. This question is a postscript to the first one. The reason, of course, is psychological, or rather psychic psychological—emotions stir the digestive juices to more

L. S.—"Is the regular use of margarine detrimental?"
Answer—Certainly not. Lulu G. Graves in her book "Foods in Health and Disease," says: "Margarine consists of vegetable and animal fat. Has practically the same fuel value as butter and is as easily digested. Vitamin content (A & D) equally good in both. Shortening power and keeping qualities as good as butter, and margarine products stand high in cleanliness and purity."

Uncle Sam Will Stage Show For Philatelists Of Ohio

BY EARL BERKLEY
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 — Uncle Sam will put on a show for Ohio stamp collectors in September and October.

Carrying everything of interest to collectors, the postoffice department's philatelic truck will roll into the state on Sept. 11 for exhibits that will continue well into the following month.

The department, announcing the tour, said the display would include a list of postage stamp plate numbers issued and sent to the press during July along with samples of rare and hard-to-get stamps.

Here is the itinerary:

Sept. 11 and 12, Youngstown; Sept. 13, Warren; Sept. 14, Rahma; Sept. 15, Kent; Sept. 16, Canabara Falls; Sept. 17 and 18, Akron; Sept. 19, Barberton; Sept. 20, Wooster; Sept. 21, Loudonville; Sept. 22, Mt. Vernon; Sept. 23, Westerville; Sept. 24, 25 and 26, Columbus; Sept. 27, 28 and 29, Springfield.

Oct. 1, 2 and 3, Dayton; Oct. 4, Troy; Oct. 5, Piqua; Oct. 6, Sidney; Oct. 7, Wapakoneta; Oct. 8, Lima; Oct. 9, Bluffton; Oct. 10, Findlay; Oct. 11, Fostoria; Oct. 12, Tiffin; Oct. 13, Fremont; Oct. 14, Sandusky; Oct. 15, Port Clinton; Oct. 16, 17 and 18, Toledo.

Secretaries of Buckeye members of Congress are a hard-working lot these days with their bosses busy with emergency legislation and keeping an eye on their election campaigns. Hundreds of letters and many telegrams reach the offices each day in connection with national defense, conscription and other vital questions along with the usual number from persons interested in government jobs.

Most offices undertake to answer each letter, particularly if it comes from the member's own district, and the recent deluge has forced a few congressmen to hire extra help.

But the secretaries find time for diversion. The current pressure has not interfered with their monthly dinner dances.

Ohio may get an $8,400,000 airplane engine laboratory for which Congress has appropriated money. Officials said there were a number of Buckeye sites suitable for the work, considered important in connection with development of an air force for national defense.

Zanesville already has offered a site for the laboratory and Youngstown and Columbus are interested. John F. Victory, secretary of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, said a site probably would be chosen in September.

Rep. Robert Jones, Lima Republican, wants Congress to do everything possible for national defense but he questions the necessity for conscription of man power without first improving enlistment methods.

"While defense measures to preserve the American way of life have had my wholehearted support," Jones wrote constituents, "universal conscription without trying to correct defects in the enlistment program is indefensible."

Rep. George Bender, Cleveland Republican, objects to the tradition that new members of the house of representatives should be good listeners and leave the job of speaking and handling legislation to those who have served a number of terms.

Senility is all right in its place, he contends, but that place isn't the house.

"In this house," he suggested, "where we are all elected in the same manner to represent our constituency, certainly we have a right to be heard."

Bender contended that Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military affairs committee tried to "muzzle" members during debate on legislation to authorize the President to order out the National guard.

"He (May) evidenced an intolerance with anyone who wanted to speak on the measure," said Bender when he got the floor for five minutes. "He (May) said that every body should not be permitted to speak on this measure."

"Well, now, we are all members of this house. This is an important matter and most certainly, whether we agree with the gentleman's position or not, we have a right to speak, and this is the time to speak."

Bender voted for the bill, which passed 343 to 33.

You'll start off the fall season by wearing the ensemble, with the tailored, long-sleeved bolero, as a street outfit. Later, you'll wear the dress alone under your coat. Just see those well-balanced lines! The front skirt panel gives slim flattery. The simple bodice is shirred or gathered at the shoulders and darted above the waist to keep its easy fullness in place. A row of tiny buttons from the V-neck to the waist creates nice up-and-down lines. A gay idea is to contrast the rounded revers of the jacket to match the dress. Individual Vote Has More Influence In Close Ones

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 23—In presidential elections the individual voter in a closely contested state may exert hundreds of times more influence on the makeup of the electoral college than a vote in a state where one candidate predominates strongly.

This is according to the arithmetic of Dr. John Q. Stewart, member of the faculty of Princeton university.

His computations show this inequality in past presidential elections, and indicate how large they may be in the coming election.

For example, he says, in 1936 New Hampshire's electoral vote of 4 would have been swung from Roosevelt if only 1910 voters had been persuaded to change to Landon. Accordingly 4 electoral votes were effectively controlled at the rate of 478 votes per electoral vote.

But in Mississippi it would have required a shift to Landon of 76,438 Roosevelt votes to swing 9 electoral votes.

total votes. This is at the rate of 8493 votes per electoral vote.

Therefore, it is fair to assert, Dr. Stewart says, that a Roosevelt voter in New Hampshire exerted about 18 times greater influence on the composition of the electoral college than a Roosevelt voter in Mississippi.

In the famous contest of 1884 a change to Blaine of 575 Cleveland votes in New York would have put the state's electors in the Blaine column, and Blaine in the White House.

This case was at the rate of 16 votes per elector of the winning side.

From results of a recent sample nationwide poll Dr. Stewart estimates that this fall in Wyoming a Wilkie voter stands to exert 38 times more electoral influence than the individual Roosevelt voter in Texas. In Wyoming, under this estimate, about 330 votes will control the electoral vote; in Texas, 12,500.

Some other states as estimated by Dr. Stewart, on the basis of the straw poll, are North Dakota 625; Rhode Island 700; Delaware 800; Connecticut 830; Nevada 1300; Michigan 1800; Pennsylvania 2300; New York 2500; Ohio 3300; Illinois 4000; Massachusetts 4000; California 4600; New Jersey 4600; Indiana 6000; Iowa 7000; Maine 9000; and Louisiana 11,000.

Theater Attractions

A fast-paced well written drama in "They Drive at Night" showing tonight and Saturday at the State with Ann Sheridan, George Raft, Ida Lupino, Humphrey Bogart, Gale Page, Alan Hale and Bonnie Harris in the principal roles.

The life and loves of an ambitious truck driver who story and contains some fast action and good comedy. Raft turns from palooka to the portrayal of a truck driver who was getting along alright until he fell in love with a red-headed waitress.

Since the love theme must be complicated in the movie, they can't get married because they haven't enough money and besides Ida Lupino, playing the young wife of Raft's truck driver, has a fancy in fact, that she murders her husband, thinking to win Raft's affection. When he still prefers the red-headed waitress, the woman accuses and accuses him of the murder of her husband.

Humphrey Bogart tries his hand at a sympathetic role, for a well-earned change, and does excellently with it. Raft and Miss Sheridan are particularly suited to the type of fast action-fast dialogue story they have here.

At the Grand tonight and Saturday is "Charles Street" in "Texas Stagecoach".

MIND A BLANK, ENGINEMAN SAYS

Operator of Coach In Akron Wreck Quizzed First Time

AKRON, Aug. 23. — Hopes of learning from Engineman Thomas L. Murtaugh the reason for the head-on collision on a gasoline motor coach and freight train which killed 43 persons at nearby Cuyahoga Falls July 31, were dashed at least temporarily today.

His mind "a blank" before and after the crash, the 47-year-old Orville, O., trainman was unable to tell Pennsylvania railroad and Summit county officials why the coach failed to observe orders to take a siding and let the freight pass.

Murtaugh was questioned at City hospital yesterday for the first time since the disaster. One of three survivors of the wreck, he has not been told of the accident deaths.

Coroner R. E. Amos said the Engineman remembered having an order to sidetrack the coach, but apparently recalled nothing after passing Dead Man's hollow, five miles from the wreck scene.

Mind Goes Blank

Amos quoted Murtaugh as saying: "From that time on, my mind was a blank until I saw the approaching engine. When I saw the engine, I put on the emergency brake, turned on the sand, shut off my engine and blew the whistle. Then I jumped and that's all I remember."

Investigators reported Murtaugh told of having headaches which he attributed to fumes from the coach's gasoline motor, and Amos suggested he might have been overcome by the fumes.

The possibility that monoxide fumes affected the engineman "is so remote as not to be even considered," said F. H. Krick, division superintendent for the railroad. The engineman is recovering from a skull fracture.

Murtaugh learned only yesterday that Harry Shafer, 57, conductor on the coach, was injured. The conductor has undergone amputation of one leg and arm. A railroad section hand was the only other coach occupant to escape death.

Highlandtown Man Is Held For Jury

LISBON, Aug. 23.—Paul Metts, 20, of Highlandtown, last night entered a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman to a charge of having stolen a power plant, including an engine and generator, from the Beaver Coal company, operating in Madison township.

The value of the property was fixed at $80. Metts was held for the September term grand jury, his bond being fixed at $1,500, which was furnished.

The power plant was stolen in January, and between that time and a week ago when it was recognized by its owner at the Buckeye Coal company mines near Gavers, had been sold four times, the theft being traced to Metts through the sales.

RALLY TO KEEP PRESIDENT IN

Ortiz's Supporters In Argentine Seek Legislative Action

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 23.—Victor Guillo, a member of the chamber of deputies, died today of what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound, complicating an already critical internal political situation created by the resignation of President Roberto M. Ortiz.

Guillo's ouster from the chamber had been demanded by a committee investigating the El Palomar land deal in which the army is alleged to have paid five times the value of a piece of land for an airport. He was a member of the Radical (Liberal) party. Police said he shot himself in the head with a pistol.

The president resigned because he said the committee report involved his honor without naming him.

SALEM, OHIO

Supporters of Argentine President Roberto M. Ortiz predicted today a joint legislative assembly called for tomorrow afternoon would give their leader a vote of confidence, thus overriding his resignation and reaffirming his prestige in the eyes of the nation.

A preliminary canvass showed 123 of a possible total of 190 members favored a vote of confidence.

Ortiz, who delegated general executive powers to Vice President Ramon Castillo June 3 because of illness, submitted his resignation yesterday because a senate investigation on into a high-priced army land purchase had "soured my office" by attacking two of his cabinet members, although Ortiz himself was not named.

The first public show of the 54-year-old president's popularity was manifested last night by an impromptu parade to Ortiz' home, with marchers singing the national hymn and shouting demands he remain in office.

They then paraded to the war ministry where they expressed their approval of War Minister Gen. Carlos Marquez.

Marquez and Finance Minister Pedro Groppe were the cabinet members charged by the senate committee with negligence under the budgetary laws in permitting the purchase of land for El Palomar airdrome at a price of about $612,000, which the committee asserted was five times its actual value.

Meanwhile, there were rumors Argentina's representative form of government might undergo changes if Ortiz' resignation were accepted. Ordinarily his powers would go to Vice President Castillo, but some observers feared an at least temporary dictatorship might result.

Ortiz was elected to a six-year term in 1937 and inaugurated Feb. 20, 1938.

Ohio's Rich Soil Is Divided Into Fewer Farms Than In '35

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Agricultural Ohio's rich soil is divided into 17,000 fewer farms this year than it was five years ago, a congressional committee was told.

P. G. Beck of Indianapolis, regional director of the Farm Security Administration, reported to a special house committee meeting in Chicago to investigate interstate migration of destitute citizens that preliminary census data from 69 of Ohio's 88 counties showed 14,130 fewer farm units than in 1935.

"At this rate," Beck said, "the total state loss between '35 and '40 would be 17,381 units." That decline, he said, is nearly 7 per cent from the 255,146 farm units enumerated five years ago.

Emer F. Kruse of Columbus, chairman of the Ohio AAA committee, said "there is a definite tendency toward larger farms."

Population Rises, However

Despite the decline in farm units, preliminary census figures indicate that Ohio's farm population has risen and that there is little migration of farm families to other states.

Some of the displaced farm families have become farm laborers and others have remained in rural areas on direct or work relief, Beck declared. There were 3,787 farm units unable to get land in Ohio.

Beck's report attributed displacement of farm population to four main causes:

(1) Enlargement and consolidation of farms because of mechanization; (2) Return of owners from urban areas because of depression; (3) Deterioration of land resources; and (4) Financial failure.

Ten of Ohio counties reported preliminary census figures showing more farms in 1940 than in 1935. Ohio river floods helped this change in three counties: Lawrence, which increased 337 to 2,828; Monroe, up 506 to 3,395; and Athens, up 52 to 2,710. Industrial unemployment helped put 329 more farms into service in Cuyahoga county and 143 more in Summit; their respective 1246 totals being 2,580 and 2,943. Other increases were: Carroll, from 1,877 to 1,919; Muskingum 3,943 to 3,899; Butler, 2,902 to 2,936; Fairfield, 3,428 to 3,440; Union, 2,366 to 2,710.

Fifty-nine other counties, including Columbiana, reported declines in farm units in the last five years. Columbiana county's drop was from 4,102 to 3,655.

Urges Adequate Defense

"In time of war, prepare for peace," Taking this theme from the advice of the first president, Atty. Joel H. Sharp, addressing the Kiwanis club at luncheon Thursday in the Memorial building, urged that America prepare while it has time to do so.

He cited facts concerning previous wars in which America had been involved to show how relative unpreparedness proved a factor in both time and expense. He referred to the nation's growing navy establishment of military bases and other defense steps as efforts in the right direction.

Leon H. Colley was program chairman.

DENVER, Aug. 23—Two officers and seven enlisted men were killed in the crash of an army bombing plane (a two-motored B 18 Curtiss) on a bombing range 43 miles east of Denver last night.

Flares dropped early today from a searching ship located the wreckage after the bomber, from Denver's Lowry field, had failed to return from a routine bombing practice assignment.

A severe electrical storm occurred east and southeast of the city last night. Scene of the crash, southeast of Watkins, Colo., is a flat, dry prairie country creased by gullies.

The plane and another ship took off on the assignment last night.

Health Conscious Americans
Departing From Fad Ideas

By JOSEPH A. RAWLINGS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—Health conscious Americans—and they are legion—are about to abandon their "screw" health fad ideas, Prof. Arthur H. Steinhaus of George Williams college says. They are going to drop beliefs that a strong sun tan is good for one, that shrimps and strawberries should never be taken together, that irregular eating is a common cause of stomach trouble and many others unsupported by scientific investigation. Prof. Steinhaus asserted in an interview today. Prof. Steinhaus is chairman of the health instruction section of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and is head of George Williams' department of physiology.

Questions Are Asked
"Having passed through two stages of health consciousness, first the period of slogans such as 'early to bed and early to rise' and the second of 'health facts,' we are about to enter one of 'health reasons,'" he said. "The new period is based on the conviction of health authorities that people can distinguish a fact from a falsehood only if they know the reasons behind each statement." With the advancement of scientific investigation, he said, more and more persons are beginning to ask the "whys" of health fads, and health authorities will have to teach health reasons, rather than rules and "facts." Prof. Steinhaus described the open-window-oxygen-fad, who covers himself up to his nose with a huge pile of blankets, as definitely "crazy." "It's not so much the oxygen, but the room temperature that's important," he said. "What this fellow actually does is overheat his body with blankets and prevent a good circulation of air. Besides that, the weight of the blankets makes him uncomfortable. I'm talking about the extremist, who thinks he's doing something for his lungs and nose. The outdoor air is no better than that indoors, except that it is more likely to be cool. Sleeping in excessively cold air may bring on sinus difficulties.

Other Fallacies

"Some other 'screw' ideas still entertained by some health enthusiasts are these: "Bow legs result when babies are permitted to walk too early in life. (It's the diet that's responsible.) "An outdoor walk is invigorating because there is more oxygen in the open air. "The human body renews all of its parts once every seven years. "Acid foods should never be taken with milk. "Poor posture is one of the causes of tuberculosis.

LUTHERANS SCORE FIRST WIN IN CHURCH LOOP

DEFEAT Y.P.C.C. AS ROUND ROBIN BATTLES BEGIN

News, Leetonia in 1-1 Tie; Trades Blanks Carrolls, 7 to 0

Opening the Church league round robin, preliminary to the final championship series for the season, the Lutherans nosed out the Y. P. C. C. 5 to 4, last night at Centennial park.

These two rivals, and the Baptists, the third, will compete in a round robin series, each team playing the two clubs twice, and the two teams with the best averages will battle under the lights at Reilly stadium.

The Young People's club got off to an early start, scoring twice in the first frame. The Lutherans edged into the picture in the third inning, sending one tally across the plate, and they went decidedly ahead in the fourth with a three-run spurge. The Y. P. C. C. came back with a single run in the fifth and another in the sixth to deadlock the count.

The game, as a result, went to the tenth inning when the Lutherans eked out a single run to win. The Salem News and the Leetonia Merchants, the latter now tied with the Recreation for the leadership of the Class A circuit, turned in a close one last night, so close, in fact, it ended up in a no-decision encounter. The game was called in the sixth, because of darkness, with the score tied at one-all.

The News scored in the first frame, Leetonia in the second. The News batters got only three hits off Ken Brudery while five was the best the Leetonians could do with Zines' offerings. R. Mancuso getting two for three.

By way of contrast, there was nothing close about the Trades Class-Carroll clash. The Trades slapped out four runs in the first inning and three more in the fourth to blank the Carrolls by a score of 7 to 0.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The mutuels must take in $50,000 nightly, if the forthcoming trotting meet at the old Roosevelt raceway breaks even.... Judge Landis is shaking his big stick at Southern association magnates and telling 'em to stop all that open betting in the bleachers.... The Football Dodgers may come up with a couple more halfbacks—could they be Nile Kinnick (if he doesn't enter the Harvard law school) and Bonnie Banks McFadden, the Clemson thin man?

KENNEL CLUB
Doggone, if a player in a Minnesota amateur league didn't get a homer because his long hit rolled into a very much occupied dog house.... While the pooch snapped and snarled, the opposing outfielder stood helplessly by.... Meantime, the hitter dashed around the bases and scored the winning run.

PROSPERITY NOTE
Big Ten grid ticket sales are up 10 per cent. Illinois just got its biggest single order in ten years—367 for the Notre Dame game.... Billy Southworth has the Cardinals playing .642 ball since he took hold.... Frank Kimbrough, Hardin-Simmons coach, is picking the Texas Aggies to be the first Southwest conference champs to repeat, and he says it isn't because his two little brothers, Jarvis, John and Jack, are on the Aggies.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
James E. Doyle, Cleveland Plain Dealer: "The story of the National league home run race is a story tagged 'Mize and men' trying to catch him."

Add Magic Names: Doc Sutherland's Pals will toss him a big feed when he takes the Dodgers to Pittsburgh Sept. 29. The game is a near sell-out already. Jack Dempsey is passing out "I Want Roosevelt" buttons.

RED LIGHT
Buddy Knox, the busy Irish heavyweight, makes his 13th start of the year in Hollywood Friday, Sept. 13.... This is the second time in his career Buddy has faced this combination.

LAKERS READY FOR TILT WITH AKRON SLUGGERS

Face Golden Ages Sunday At 2:30 At Placentia Diamond

Confident because of their win last Sunday over the strong Bridgeport club, the Lake Placentia team will be out to avenge an early season defeat when it meets the tough Golden Ages of Akron in a return game at the lake front diamond at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Akronites rallied to score nine runs in the last three innings to defeat Placentia in their first meeting, 9 to 5. A home run by Oby of Akron tied the score in the seventh and Blodorn's homer in the ninth with two on was the winning blow.

The Golden Ages, members of the Northeastern Ohio league, are in third place. They won the second half title of the Akron City Class A circuit and finished second in the first round.

They have won 38 out of 48 games so far this season. They have a strong defensive team and pack a lot of power at the plate.

Nick Frascella, former Wooster basketball star, plays first base for the Akronites.

Their complete lineup is: Simpson, cf.; F. Feduniak, lf.; Covey, 3b.; Joyce, rf.; Frascella, 1b.; Boldorn, 2b.; Justice, c.; Wass, ss.; Letty Rosche or Jones, p.

Willis Schopfer will pitch for Placentia, with Simpson or Zupanich catching.

900 COMPETING IN TRAPSHOOT

Marksmen Seek Titles, $10,000 Offered In Vandalia Event

(By Associated Press)
VANDALIA, Aug. 23.—There's gold in them thar "piddins" and about 900 marksmen—crack and otherwise—went after $10,000 today in the Grand American handicap event. The sport of the sporting events.

The trapshoot title has been won by a 14-year-old boy, a 70-year-old man, by millionaires, unemployed laborers, farmers, barbers, mechanics, store-owners—by everyone except experts.

No man has ever won it twice. The secret lies in the handicap. Each man must stand between 16 and 25 feet behind the target release, according to his registered scores and his known ability.

Ray Miller, 45-year-old rural mail carrier of Grove City, Minn., won the preliminary handicap yesterday.

Miller won the hard way, cracking 100 in a row for a perfect score from the 20-yard line. It was the second time in the history of the preliminary that a perfect score has been recorded.

Miller decided just before the event that he would not enter because he was shooting so badly. But a friend, Ray Zweimer of Blooming Prairie, Minn., talked Roy into competing.

The other marksmen to score 100 in the preliminary was Jean Pope of East Moline, Ill., in 1930.

CASTON, Aug. 23.—Mel Queen, Akron hurler, set a Mid-Atlantic league record last night by fanning 16 Canton batters in the first game of a double-header. He also drove in the winning runs in the ninth as Akron won both games 3 to 1 and 4 to 2.

Deadline!

Entries Should Come Quickly for County Tennis Tourney

Tonight is the deadline for filing entries for the annual Columbiana county tennis tournament, scheduled to open tomorrow afternoon at the Salem Country club.

Registrations have been fairly good in the Senior class, 18 years of age and older, but registrations in the Junior division, 18 years old and under, have been few and far between.

Approximately 20 netters have enrolled in the Senior group. Other tennis players of Salem and other Columbiana county towns and cities are urged to call Don or Bob Hammill by tonight. The phone number is 3845. Drawings are to be made this evening.

Entries to date are from this city, Lisbon and East Liverpool. Both singles and doubles will be played. Cups will be presented the winners.

All persons entered in the matches are requested to meet at the Country club at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

LADIES' LEAGUE HAS 12 TEAMS

Bowlers to Start Firing At Maples Early In September

Twelve teams already have been organized in the Ladies' Bowling league, scheduled to start blasting the maples soon after the Grate alleys open Sept. 1.

Openings still remain on some teams for substitutes and regulars. Women not listed and desirous of bowling with any of the teams are urged to contact Mrs. Ruth Hine or Mrs. Edith Groner.

Teams organized include the Eagles, Ford V-8's, Polsky's, Brownies, Endres-Gross, Salem Cab, Kaufman's, Trades Class, Damascus Lumber, Finney Beauty Shop, Church Budget and AAA (Columbiana County Motor club).

Lakes, Reservoirs Best For Fishing

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Aug. 23.—Lake Erie and the inland reservoirs for week-end hook and line fishing drew the nod from the State Division of Conservation and Natural Resources today.

Continued drought lowered still further the water level of the inland streams, the division reported, making the lakes and reservoirs the best prospects.

Maumee river and Swan creek in Lucas county yielded several "very good" catches of bass, catfish, sheephead and suckers this week. Large takes of white bass which have been schooling in Sandusky bay and adjacent Lake Erie waters were on the list.

Other fishing notes: Trout fishing picked up, especially in Mad river in Logan county. Pike up to seven pounds reported in Lake Erie hauls.

Perch small in the Sandusky area. Blue pike and bass in Lake Erie near Lorain and Vermilion.

Best catches reported in Bucyrus reservoir, Tossaint and Portage rivers, Crystal Lakes, Mahoning, Muskingum, Walhonding, Ohio, Scioto, Olentangy and Licking rivers.

Liverpool Angler Second In Contest

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23.—Jack Sparks of Waco, Tex., annexed a second title yesterday at the National Casting association tournament by winning the distance fly event with a cast 150 feet, 4 inches. Previously he won the distance salmon competition.

C. W. Marshall of East Liverpool, O., was second in the distance fly event.

It Ain't Hay

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Dr. Donald M. Bennett, University of Louisville physics professor, found a needle in a stack—A $105 radium needle in a stack of ashes.

A hospital misplaced the needle (used for cancer treatment). Dr. Bennett was called in with a radium detecting instrument.

He poked around the grounds for two hours. When he neared the ash pile, there was a clicking sound in his earphones. Digging did the rest.

"Flying Blind" by VERA BROWN

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
Later in the hotel lobby Judith ran into Mary Hartwig.
"Come on upstairs and we'll have lunch sent up to my room. We haven't had a chance for a visit during the whole week," Judith said.

Mary came with her. Upstairs, Judith put in their order, and Mary talked. Once the telephone rang, but Judith did not answer it. It might be Mrs. Dutton.

"I'm so glad Tex wasn't hurt last night," Mary said. Judith knew that eventually the talk must get around to the automobile accident, and she braced herself for the worst, knowing Mary.

"I think it's disgusting the way people gossip. I was furious this morning with some of the girls, the things they say. The trouble is that people are jealous of Tex. He's so successful!"

"Of course," Judith's lips were stiff.

"The trouble with Sonny is that she loves publicity, any kind. She won't mind this, but Tex does."

Fortunately their luncheon came just then.

However, Mary was full of the subject. "I felt like shaking Sonny this morning," she went on. "She just laughed when she saw the papers! She's irresponsible! That's her trouble."

Judith nodded in agreement although she could think of some other things wrong with Sonja.

Mary went to the train with Judith. At the last minute, Judith met one of her husband's friends who told her Dudley would be on the train. The weather grounded nearly everything east of Chicago. Judith bought a drawing room on the train. She felt she just had to be alone, away from everybody who knew her.... even Dudley.

Regardless of the fine drawing room, Judith did not sleep much that night. Her thoughts were too troublesome. When the train pulled in early, she did not get up, but delayed in dressing so that she would miss any of her friends. She breakfasted in Grand Central, then went over to the Pennsylvania station to get the train for Newark.

Tex wouldn't be in Marvin's home town before late afternoon. He couldn't possibly return for at least three days from Oklahoma.

The apartment seemed empty and deserted. Judith viewed the day before her with trepidation. When she was in such a state of nerves, only one thing would help. She got into an apron and went to work.

She worked until dark and everything was spotless. But she had little heart for her lonely supper when she had prepared it.

The apartment shone. It was a pleasant spot. Judith loved the room with its cool greens and yellows. It suited her. It was home. She loved it when Tex brought some of the gang home from the airport for late suppers.

She thought of going to a movie but hoped that Tex might telephone. So she waited. She wanted a report about his head, what the doctor thought. He did not call.

Next morning there was another day to face. She wrote letters, fussed about with her fall clothes. The hours seemed endless. In another twenty-four hours, Tex should be back. Then everything would be all right. Tex did not call that night but Judith telephoned her mother in Detroit at nine-thirty.

As always her mother urged her to come west when she could. The family had been worried about Tex's accident. Now Judith was sorry she had not gone on to Detroit after the races. But she had been too disturbed to face family scrutiny.

Then Judith asked the operator if she could locate Mrs. Marvin Stone in the little Oklahoma town where Marvin had been laid to rest so recently. After half an hour, Elsie's voice came over the wire. They talked for three minutes. But Tex was not there. He had gone on to Oklahoma City, Elsie said.

"I can't stand another day like yesterday, Judith decided when she opened her eyes the next morning. She dressed carefully, went over to Manhattan and did some shopping. But she was back again at five. Still no word from Tex."

At six, Michael Dudley called. "Come on in to town and have dinner with me," he pleaded.

"I haven't heard from Tex," she protested. "Besides I just got back."

"That doesn't matter. We had a wire today, he'll be in in the morning. You've been staying too close to the house. I'll wait for you at the office. I won't take no for an answer."

Judith finally agreed because she so dreaded another evening alone. She put on the new hat she had bought that day and she had never looked prettier. Her smart suit was just right.

During the short trip to Manhattan, Judith was pleasantly excited. It was fun to be away from the silent apartment.

Dudley was waiting for her. "You're a good girl to keep an old man company."

"You're a life-saver. I was pretty low."

Dudley suggested they eat at a quiet restaurant somewhere in 56th street. And it was quiet, with perfect food even to the crepe suzettes.

"Want to go to a show?"

"No, thanks. Let's just talk."

"That suits me. What have you been doing with yourself?"

"Cleaning house."

"I must say you don't look it."

"It's a good way to occupy your time," she said.

Dudley laughed. "I must try it some time."

"How did Tex say he was feeling?" Judith tried to make the question sound casual.

"He didn't say. Of course our doctor will have to check him when he gets in. I'm afraid he won't feel like flying for a few days. He will have a little vacation. No matter what he says that was a nasty cut on the head."

"I don't know how he'll feel about it," Judith said carefully.

"You two might run down to Bermuda, or out west."

Dudley waited for her comment. There was none. Then he continued:

"Of course, I want to get Tex back on his Florida run as soon as possible. People like to ride with a cup winner. It's good for business, but he's had quite a shock over Marvin and then that auto accident," he explained.

"You're probably right."

They found it difficult to talk

now. Old topics led to difficulties. Judith could not bear mention of the races. Dudley wished he had insisted on the theater.

"Let's go to a club. We can dance maybe, or watch people. Everybody turns up sooner or later."

Judith gladly assented. In the noise and confusion of a nearby night club, talking would be less of a problem.

The headwaiter settled them at a table over by the wall where they could watch the passing scene. Several people spoke to Dudley. He began pointing out celebrities to Judith—Charles Knickerbocker, Bob Benchley, Damon Runyon, the two sparkling Dorothys—Thompson and Kilgallen.

Judith's blue eyes shone. She loved this Broadway—just for a little while, at least. Hugh Lanning came in with some friends, stopped to speak to her.

"What's the idea, Judith, turning me down for Dudley? I've called you three times since you got home and couldn't get an answer."

"I'm sorry, Hugh."

"How's Tex? Is he back from Oklahoma?"

"Not 'til tomorrow."

"Dudley, you've got to get Tex out of town again right away. Judith and I have a date."

There was more of such banter, and Hugh went on to his friends.

It must have been midnight when Sonja Winthrop came in the door. She was with three men, and the whole place was agog as the flying beauty, with her startling tanned face and blonde hair, walked between the tables.

The headwaiter bowed low. A whisper went around the room. "It's Sonny Winthrop!" And other comment: "Can you imagine a girl that pretty flying an airplane?"

Sonja did not see Judith and Dudley at first. She must have spotted them when she was seated, for shortly the waiter brought Dudley a note: Come over and join us. It was like a royal command Dudley tossed the note to Judith with. "What shall we do?"

Judith knew only too well what they would do. She suddenly hated Sonja with all her heart. For Judith was not dressed, while Sonja was radiant in svelt dinner clothes.

"I'd better be leaving, Mr. Dudley. Take me to a cab and you can join them."

Dudley answered quietly: "I think you'd better not leave, Judith. Let's join them."

So they went over to the Winthrop table. Sonny greeted them both gaily, and pouted reproachfully at Dudley.

"I tried to reach you on the phone tonight. You had a half-date with me. I left word where I was coming in case you called later."

Not too subtly, Sonny put Judith out of the picture. The men with her, aviation executives from Los Angeles, were beaming with pride at Sonja. As always she gave Judith a terrific inferiority complex.

Sonja ordered brandy for Dudley and Judith asked for coffee.

"Not drinking?" Sonny raised her eyebrows. Too bad. How's Tex? When is he coming back?"

Judith's heart lifted. He hadn't communicated with Sonja then.

"Tomorrow, if he can make connections."

Before their drinks came, Sonja was called to the telephone.

When Sonny came back, she set out to be quite charming to all of them, including Judith. But she continued her proprietary attitude toward Dudley.

"What do you mean by deserting me tonight?" she persisted.

Dudley smiled. "I had to chaperon Judith in the big city."

"Well, I like this town," stressed Sonja, "with or without a chaperon, but I must go home this weekend."

Judith watched Sonny with a kind of cold fascination till the band started to play "Get Out of Town."

It made Judith smile grimly.

Thank heaven, Sonny was not going to stay.... beyond the weekend.... maybe!
